Night Gallery Now Represents Tomashi Jackson

The Los Angeles-based Night Gallery has added Tomashi Jackson to its roster. Jackson, who lives and works in Cambridge, Massachusetts, creates multimedia artworks which place in dialogue systematic inequality, modernist color theory, and popular American culture. Her work was featured in the 2019 Whitney Biennial, and she had a solo exhibition at Night Gallery this past January. This June at the gallery, she will present new work in the exhibition “Majeure Force,” which will open in commemoration of Night Gallery’s ten-year anniversary.
